Dedication

The seniors of 1958 do humbly and respectfully dedicate this annual to a most deserving, conscientious, and friendly man, Lowell E. Cockrill. His extreme patience with us has made us more patient with others; his kindness has made us kinder; his thoughtfulness has made us more thoughtful; and his confidence in us has given us more confidence in ourselves. Through his many years as Superintendent of Schools at Livermore and now as principal at the Twin Rivers Livermore Grade School, his influence for good has been felt throughout the community and school and on all who have had contact with him--our "Prof" Cockrill.

"The Higher We Rise, The Brooder Our View"

Prophecy

It was a warm summer day in June, 1968, when I, Mr. Jerry Jensen, started my trip around the United States. On this trip, I decided to look up all of my old 1958 classmates.

In my 1968 Lincoln, I went flying on my merry way. I stopped around supper time at a so-called log cabin in Kentucky. First to attract my attention were the kids running around. Oh, oh, there came the mother. What! None other than Mrs. Merel Ludwig, the former Shirley Kampen.

After spending a most horrible night with all sorts of noises and commotions, I once again was on my way. The next stop was New York. I was stopped by a local police who turned out to be Robert Zeman. I went a few more miles and stopped at a gasline station owned by Wayne Knudson. Wayne had enrolled at Luther College, but the girls at Decorah took his mind off his work. I finally made it to New York to see the Christianson Baby Supply Factory. Marilyn Gronbach thought, after having three sets of twins, it would be cheaper to have a factory. The Christianson's informed me that Mrs. Bill Jacobsen, the former Karen Rutz, was running a hamburger stand under the name "Greasy Bill's". They invited me to eat at half price. While eating, who should walk in but Art Lovig and his wife, Paula Jarvis, and their son, Arthur Junior. I left "Greasy Bill's" for the Statue of Liberty where

PROPHECY CONTINUED

I used the elevator. At the controls was Donna Layton. Donna, too, had started college but was too smart for the professors. She was asked to leave. As I headed back toward the metropolitan area, I saw a night club, "The Glass Slipper", under the ownership of Ron Claus. Sheryl Wilson and Marilyn McKenna were performing, so I stopped in to see them. As I was crossing the room, I ran into the cigarette girl, my old classmate, Glenda Rood.

I was getting ready to leave New York City and head Midwest. Just as I reached the corner, the city garbage truck passed by and I was soaked with water. When the truck moved away, I heard the laugh of Francis Pflibsen.

My first stop after New York was Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where I heard that a former classmate was in town. I followed the given directions and found a brewing factory with Samuel Thorstrand as proprietor.

Being in Milwaukee prompted me to take in a baseball game. The umpire looked familiar, and I soon recognized the face of Bruce McGowan. Bruce started playing in the Big League but was sidelined with an injury. Leaving Milwaukee, I headed for Des Moines, Iowa. I decided to go through the State House where I spotted Sharon Harrison sitting behind the governor's secretarial desk.

I continued my venture west and arrived at the Grand Canyon about noon. I thought I may as well take one of the guided tours, and who should turn out to be the guide--Sharon Holmberg. Sharon always seemed to be the outdoor type anyway.

Reno, Nevada! I saw a sign - Hotel For Men - and figured it would be a nice, quiet place to stay. I walked in and discovered the proprietors were Loana Foley and Judy Roberts.

Los Angeles was the next city in sight. I took in a music show. The program said they were introducing a new quartet, "The Crooners". To my surprise, they were four of my classmates--Paul Ehrhardt, Don Torgerson, Rodger Kay and Jerry Wehrspann. Their pianist was Mrs. Paul Ehrhardt, formerly Shirley Rood.

My next destination was Disneyland where I found another of my classmates, Carol Hellickson, now Mrs. Joe Ludwig. Carol was running the train.

At the corner of Hollywood and Vine, I saw "The Raney Model Agency". I had a long chat with Floyd during which he informed me that Jim Moen was his top photographer and Karen Curran one of his models. At suppertime I stopped at "Joe's Bar & Grill" where I found Martin Malmin, head bartender, and Eleanor Rood, waitress. I picked up the evening paper bearing the headlines: First Man And Woman Survive On Another Planet. Yes, two of my classmates were on Mars! They were Jerry Mitsven and Patty Struthers.

My car broke down at Seattle, Washington. While it was being fixed, I toured a lumber camp where the big boss was Barbara Zeman. My car repaired, I started on my way again.

I stopped at the potato state of Idaho where I saw Tom Sawyer and Marlene Klein working in their potato patch. While driving along, I turned on the radio and heard the popular voice of Sandra Tompkins. She was singing "Let's Go Back To Good Old TR", number one tune on the hit parade.

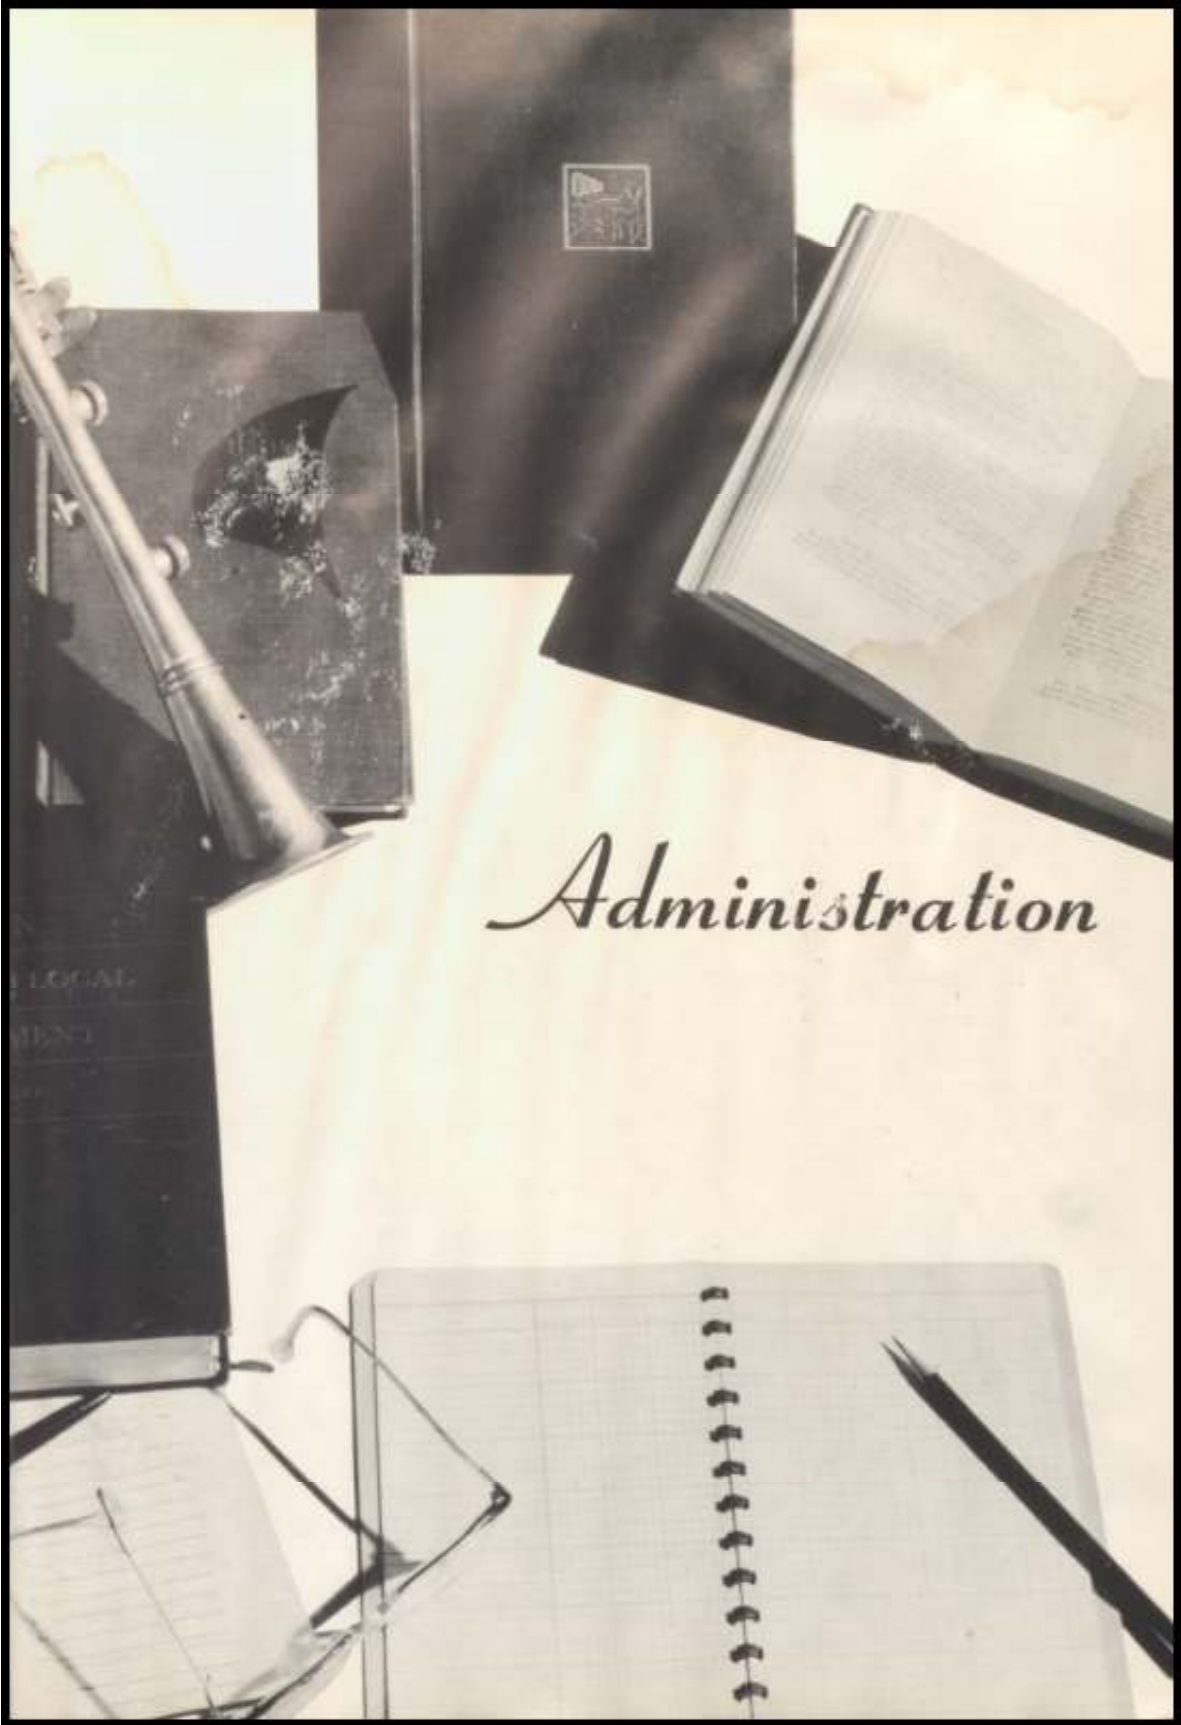

The surroundings were getting more familiar when I ran across Orlys Heegen and Nancy Cooper. They were just off duty from working at the nursing home in Fort Dodge. My wife wanted to have her hair fixed so I took her to De's Beauty Salon. Delores Hagen was the owner. Delores told us that Rogene Rolland was a curb hop at the Dog House. We stopped at Humboldt on our way home to visit friends. I was going to use the phone when I recognized the operator's voice to be that of Sharon Stoddard. Sharon told us that Ron Coleman was making a career of the women's airforce.

When we arrived home, I returned some equipment to Peter Holt, now an insurance salesman. Peter had just finished selling Mr. & Mrs. Dean Banwart a life insurance policy. Mrs. Banwart is the former Lilas Worster.

Now that I have seen all my classmates of 1958, I am well satisfied with my trip around the United States.
