Senior Class Prophecy

It was the year 2002 and I went to the Great Zoltan, who is a seer, soothsayer, sage, and part-time parking lot attendant, to see what was happening with my fellow senior classmates of 1987. We started with Michelle Aure who was busily giving piano lessons to her five children. When all of the sudden walking into the picture was her husband Sergeant Rick McKenna who started a new branch of Agri-Clutch in Sexton, Iowa.

Now in the crystal ball we see Jay Bakken the Co-Captain of the NFL All Injury Team for the fourth time in four years.

Next we went on to Lance Banwart and Tonya Bradley who were accountants for Beach's Quadrasonics.

Quickly the image changes to Ed Berte who is now the top reserve point guard for the Boston Celtics. Second only to the "Great Larry" himself.

A white haze blots the image in the crystal ball for a moment. Then we focus in on Todd Christianson who is in the middle of the Yukon checking his traps, still in search of the elusive Alaskan Muskrat.

The image now reveals Teresa Coleman who has just created Wiz candybars in Hershey, Pennsylvania where she has her candy factory.

Sounds of a cheering crowd fall upon our ears as we now tune in on a mud filled ring in Sidney, Australia where we find Crocodile Dave Demory wrestling an eleven foot crocodile, aided by his partner the Dubage Patch Kid, Mike Demory, so that they could raise money to finance their cancer research.

Anxiously I wait to see who the crystal ball will tune in on next, when we suddenly get the image of Lars Dexter Engelet, who has just opened a chain of international bars serving his international beers.

Next I see Eric Finley, better known as Howard Bluford Finley the III, who is still doing community service work for Humboldt County under the watchful eye of his probation officer Kathy Stone.

After this, I first heard, then saw the image of Pete Flustad playing on the trumpet "We Are The World" to raise money for people in Africa.

With the crystal ball now focusing in on a T.V. set, I see Denise Higgins, now a regular on Magnum P.I. as the new Higi-habe.

But wait, what's this I see? Becky Jacobson, now 33, has just married a college freshman and they're both employed at Becky's Foodland Store.

I also learned Shelli Klocko is now a plumber who specializes in cleaning hairballs.

Stephani Langerman has returned to T.R. as the head basketball coach and English teacher replacing the late Noel Schmidt.

We switch to the music world where Karyl Lounsbury is now backup singer for Amy Grant.

Then on to the world of literature where Mark Schoonbeck has just published his novel "How to Be Successful at Being a Negative Thinker."

Coated with grime from head to toe is Jerry Steil, now the head mechanic for Frito Lay trucks.

We flash to a bedroom back in Bode where Scott Tepner, who is still a senior, is just waking up at 2:00 in the afternoon saying, "I feel stupid," as he throws the pillow back over his head.

In the world of beauty and fashion we see Cathy Wiuff, a beauty consultant for the Will's Boutique and Bar, Originators of the "Hot Oil Happy Hour!"

As the crystal ball gives it's final flash and begins to fade, we see Matt Zeman has just opened his 50th barn ball facility in honor of the Twerp.

I found this all quite interesting but wasn't a bit surprised. I thanked Zoltan, and told him all I really wanted was to get my car and go home. After all, I knew all of this already from our 15th reunion last month. When I asked if he could tell me about what the group would be doing in another 15 years, he replied, "Don't be foolish! No one can see into the future."

Senior Class Will

We, the members of the Class of 1987 of Twin Rivers Tech., being of disturbed bodies and deranged minds, do hereby ordain and establish this Class Will and Testament, and herewith establish the following bequests.

1. Michelle Aure, leave to Cheri Kellner the ability not to get caught parking and to Stephani I leave spaghetti.
1. Jay Bakken, leave to Dave Demory my ability to shoot a basket at the wrong end of the court and to David Weydert I leave my ability to putt when someone yells "Noonen!!"
1. Lance Banwart, leave to Runt and Twerp the ability to put on muscular gain and to Scott Sickels I leave the ability to sing.
1. Edward Berte, leave to Eric Jensen my Larry Bird ability so that he can beat me in a game of one on one.
1. Tonya Bradley, leave to Denise Higgins my ability to buy something on sale and to Joel Rutz and Steve Thul I leave all my Physics' knowledge.
1. Todd Christianson, leave to Jean Berte the ability to stay standing in public eating establishments and to Eric Jensen I leave my ability to light fireworks without blowing up the whole box full.
1. Teresa Coleman, leave to my sister, Tracey, my English grades and to Margaret Struthers I leave a candy store.
1. David Demory, leave to anyone with seventh hour study hall my list of perfectly good excuses to go home (even if Mr. Moore doesn't believe them) and to Denise Higgins I leave some new shirts.
1. Mike Demory, leave to Scott Tepner the ability to get up on time and to Noel Schmidt I leave my exorbitant English abilities so he can add to his vast knowledge.
1. Lars Engeler, leave to the students of Twin Rivers the ability to wear whatever length of shorts they want.
1. Pete Flugstad, leave to Lars Engeler the ability to stay seated in a chair and not fall over backwards and to Scott Sickels I leave the ability to actually do homework and not put it off until the end of the quarter.
1. Denise Higgins, leave to Dave Demory a personal tailor for his every need in clothing designs and to Junior (Tonya) I leave the ability to NOT be embarrassed all the time.
1. Becky Jacobson, leave to Jody McCullough my parking space because her car is the only one small and cool enough to have it and to Jean Berte I leave my graphic arts skills.
1. Shelli Klocko, leave to anyone that wants it all the garbage I get after weekends and to my sister, Pam, I leave the ability to keep her mouth shut.
1. Stephani Langerman, leave to my sister, Laura, the ability to talk without flubbing up and to my mom the ability to put up with Laura when I'm gone.
1. Karyl Lounsbury, leave to Gina Bennett the ability to not do her winter trick and to Mary Waechter I leave my managerial duties for basketball.
1. Rick McKenna, leave to Noel R. Schmidt all my shares in Big Bob's Burger Stand and to Jerry Steil a super sonic, nuclear powered, high frequency, electron scanning, voltage regulated, car theft detection system so I don't have to go in hot pursuit.
1. Mark Schoonbeck, leave to John Rutz my ability to be at rest rather than in constant motion and to Scott Sickels I leave money to take singing lessons so Lance doesn't have to pay.
1. Jerry Steil, leave to Dave Demory my piloting position with the Ultra Auto-Pilot Device equipped with Radar and Sonar Detection Systems.
1. Kathy Stone, leave to Barb Brown the ability to eat before she comes to study hall and to Duane Betz I leave the ability to keep a secret.
1. Scott Tepner, leave to the Senior Class my ability to be late and to the Senior boys I also leave my truck.
1. Cathy Wiuff, leave to Jody McCullough my ability to duck chocolate pudding and to Jerry Steil all my vast and useful mechanical abilities.
1. Matt Zeman, leave to the Barnball Bandits the use of my barn while I'm far, far away, but be careful, and to Todd, Rick, and Lance my ability to drive 55 and not 65.

FUN WEEK

Freshmen girls showing their Fun Week spirit on Punk Day.

Patrick Honenfield laying back and chilling out on Punk Day.

Overworked And Tired?

Fun Week began March 2 and ran until March 6. It was much like Homecoming Week where everyone was pretty crazy. There was a challenge to the students to be as creative as they could be. The days of Fun Week were a little bit different than other regular Homecoming Days. They were (Monday-Friday) 50's Day, Punk Day, Button Day, Flower Child Day, and National Lars Engeler Day.

Button Day was something never tried before at Twin Rivers. On this day, the girls did not talk to guys and when they did the girl was required to give him her button. Joe Jacobson was the guy with the most buttons at the end of the day and was named "Mr. Irresistible."

On the last day of Fun Week we had fun celebrating National Lars Engeler Day by treating Lars to cake, bars, and cards. Some people even dressed like Lars, whom we'll never forget.

On Friday night the "Go Crazy Fun Week Dance" was held where everyone definitely went crazy. Most were wearing Hawaiian attire and had a great time. The Lip Sync contest was the highlight of the evening which Joel Larson won with Ghostbusters.

Overall Fun Week was a big success and a great time which gave us many wonderful memories for years to come.
